GAME OF CHILDREN

JOC DE NENS

BY RUBÉN SÁNCHEZ

Marc is different from his peers and misses his best friend when he heads off to university. Immersed in a society of internet, social media and youngsters who are anxious to become adults, he decides to question his emotions. He discovers his fears of being adult and leaving childhood behind. He is afraid of maturing unlike his peers. With the support of the memory of Òscar and his friends, Marc learns to let go, come to terms with old memories and redefine his emotions.
